Eggs, really?

How familiar are you with this delicious breakfast staple? Statistically, Germans eat one egg every second day. In Austria, the self-sufficiency rate for eggs is 77%. That means that Austria must import additional eggs in order to meet its needs. Whether an egg is related to the chicken's feathers, but to its ear. It takes 24 hours for a hen to produce an egg, an egg has a maximum shelf life of 28 days. The older the egg is, the easier it is to peel. The size of the egg depends on the chicken's breed and its age. A large egg weighing approx. 63 grams contains 90 kcal, 6.5 g of fat, 0.5 g carbohydrates and 7.5 g of protein. Eggs can be prepared in a wide variety of ways: This is a fried egg. Are you sure? Then why don't you grab your mobile phone ...

GREEN

Green discovery tour in the Explorer Hotels

All Explorer Hotels are certified passive-energy hotels and, due to the environmentally friendly power supply, are climate neutral – that is absolutely unique in the hotel industry.

The Explorer Hotels' environmental management is certified in accordance with ISO 9001 and 14001.

Social sustainability

Have you ever wondered why the Explorer Hotels don't have their own restaurants? Instead of building our own one, we want to support the local restaurants. Decide for yourself where you want to eat. Whether you prefer Italian, Asian, home-style cooking or regional cuisine – the Explorer Buddies would love to give you an advice and share their ideas!
